TWO AMERICAN PRESIDENTS EXCHANGE VISITS ACROSS BORDER

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 16.—The long-expected meeting between President Taft and President Diaz of the republic of Mexico, occurred here today.
Outwardly it was attended with a display of soldiery, a flare of trumpets, a boom of cannon, with a pomp of ceremony suggestive of supreme authority, but in the actual hand-clasp of the two executives and in exchange of courteous words which passed from lip to lip, there was simple but cordial informality.

President Diaz was the first to speak. He assured President Taft of his warm personal regard and his high esteem of the man who had accomplished so much in the Philippines in Cuba and elsewhere, and, who had now the honor to be the chief executive of so great a nation as the United States.

President Taft, in simple American fashion, declared he was glad to meet President Diaz. He was glad to know the president of such a great nation; especially glad to know the present president, who had made the nation great.

Both presidents dwelt upon the cordiality of the relations existing between the United States and Mexico.
President Taft declared that today's meeting was not necessary to make stronger the bonds of friendship; it merely typified the strength of the bonds as they already exist.

Few People See Meeting.
There were less than a score of persons admitted to witness the meeting of the two executives. Even these were excluded later when President Taft and President Diaz withdrew to an inner room of the Chamber of Commerce building, where the historic meeting occurred, and were only attended by Governor Creel of the state of Chihuahua, former ambassador to the United States, who acted as interpreter.

The scene of the day's ceremonies shifted from time to time from this thriving American City, across the shallow wandering Rio Grande river, to the typical little Mexican settlement of Ciudad Juarez.

Fifteen-Minute Interview.
The private interview between the two presidents lasted for fifteen minutes. It is officially stated that it consisted of but an elaboration of the public utterances of Messrs. Taft and Diaz, and that no matters of diplomacy were touched upon in any way.

Secretary Dickinson, in greeting President Diaz at the boundary today, said:

"You are the first chief executive of a nation to cross our border. In this act you are given not only to the people of your and our country, but to the whole world, the highest manifestation of the cordial relations existing between these contiguous sister republics, and of your desire to make them, so far as you can, perpetual."

DR. COOK MEETS MORE AFFIDAVITS

NEW YORK GLOBE YESTERDAY AFTERNOON PRINTED AFFIDA-VITS OF MEMBERS OF PARTY.

Member of Forestry Service Said to Have Admitted That Cook Was Absent Too Short a Time to Have Ascended Mount McKinley.

New York, N. Y., Oct. 16.—Four more affidavits are published in the Globe here this afternoon in connection with Cook's alleged ascent of Mount McKinley.

Three are by Frank Printz, Walter Miller and Samuel Beach, all members of Cook's party, and the fourth by Dr. John E. Shore, a physician of Leavenworth, Washington.

The first three declare that Barrill assured them that Cook's story of the ascent was false. Printz incidentally affirmed that Cook still owes him $825.

Dr. Short declares in his affidavit that Oscar F. Blankenship, now in the forestry service and near Mount McKinley in September, 1906, told him that Cook did not have time to make the alleged ascent in the short while the explorer and Barrill were absent from the other members of the party.

Dorothy Wingo's Party.

Mrs. C. E. Wingo gave her little daughter, Dorothy, a party Saturday afternoon, which was her 4th birthday. The house was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and sixteen little guests had a good time playing and blowing soap bubbles.
The little pipes were given as souvenirs. Candy, lemonade and cake were served.

State Missions.

Rev. Stubblefield preached concerning the organization and work of the State Mission Society, at 11 o'clock Sunday and at the close of the service took a collection for State Missions which amounted to $203.00. He says the sum will reach $250 by the time the State Convention meets at Chickasha.

WHEN we advise high-priced clothes we're advising economy, not expense; we don't say they're best for you because we sell such clothes, but we sell them because they're best for you; what is the best for you is best for us.

These HART SCHAFFNER & MARX Suits and Cravanette Top Coats at $20 to $35 are proving the truth of this daily; they're economy clothes—because they're the best clothes made.

You may think $25 for a Suit or a Cravanette Coat is a high price or a low one; that depends on what you've been used to. But we can tell you its a mighty low price for values like these. Many colors to select from. Many in silk, mohair lined at $25

If you still say $15 is enough, its enough. It will get you a mighty good Suit or Overcoat, or a fine Cravanette Coat here. Pure worsted or wool. New weaves and models.

You'll be proud of your boys in our clothes, $2.50 to $20—they're good, all wool and stylish. We have a special line at $5—the best you ever bought at the price for the little fellows, 2½ to 6 years old. Buster Browns or Blouses from $2.50 to $5.00
(They are special values)

Your head will satisfy you better in a Stetson Hat, $3.50 to $6. Our $3 Knox in Derbys are swell. The Gimbels at $3, Soft or Derbys in all styles and colors.

Our $1.00 Shirts are made to fit and wear.
Underwear—cotton or wool in union suits or in two pieces, from 50c to $4 per suit.

A good selection in Night Shirts, Pajamas and Bath Robes at prices the most reasonable.

CRUCE'S GREAT ARGUMENT IN HASKELL CASE

BRILLIANT AND MOST POPULAR OKLAHOMA ATTORNEY IN-TENSELY INTERESTS HIS AUDI-TORS.

Ardmoreite: A. C. Cruce, former United States district attorney and one of the greatest criminal lawyers in the southwest, who has more than a state reputation for eloquence, surpassed all former efforts of eloquence in his speech in the Haskell case Friday afternoon. During his speech lasting for more than an hour every eye in the court room was centered upon him and every ear was turned to catch every word uttered. The former portion of his speech was devoted to a learned argument on points of law touching the qualifications of Postmaster Wood as a grand juror. The prejudice and envy of the jurors and the manner of coercing them to present the bill of indictment was the second question discussed and it was here that visitors to the court room were treated to his bursts of eloquence. Mr. Cruce said in part: "This is not a technical fight against the indictment, it is an instance where the government is more vitally interested than the defendants. The defendants are justified in interposing objections to the indictment and it is doubtful if the chief executive of a state could be tried at all on this charge but that point has not been raised and will not be argued, but it is the plain duty of the court to see that in case the governor is tried that he be tried according to the due forms of law. If bias and prejudice existed no officer of the court should uphold it and bias and prejudice did not exist for the evidence as I understand it will more than sustain the allegations made in the motion to set this indictment aside. It is known that one of the jurors entered the room of the district attorney and talked with him an hour about the case, it is known that a paper was left in the grand jury room which was calculated to coerce the jurors to present this bill of indictment and I believe it would be a lasting disgrace for such conduct to receive the sanction of the court. Every citizen of this republic takes a pride in its federal courts, every man no matter how high or how low he stands in the social scale, no matter how anxious the government may be to secure a conviction, relies upon this court for justice and upon its rulings he depends for his liberty. When one man is wrong in a jury all actions of that jury are vitiated, when reason for a rule of law ceases the rule ceases and this idea has been sustained by the federal supreme court. In this instance the dignity of the court is as much concerned as the defendant, no Mexican Greaser ever used more vitriolic language against the man he sought to stab in the back than these men used against Governor Haskell. They lied when they swore they had no bias, and men who lie have a motive in doing so, and the motive in this case is to wreak vengeance against the governor of this state. If a court allows itself to be imposed upon it becomes a laughing stock instead of a fountain of justice. The court must preserve its dignity. It is a question of life and character with the defendants and they have a right to appeal to this court for justice. It has been said by a great many jurists that there is no wrong without a remedy and the remedy to be applied in this case is to tear apart the curtains of the grand jury room and see what transpired there. The bitterness between the president of the United States and the governor of Oklahoma is back of these indictments, they are borne of political differences. Among all the eighty million people that stand out there and look to the federal courts for justice not one of these citizens can be found who would say the proceedings of that grand jury are right, they would all say let this examination be held. I believe this to be the greatest wrong ever perpetrated in the courts of this country."

ABOUT SENATOR OWEN.

Senator R. L. Owen is home from Europe and is indisposed in New York. Oklahoma has about come to the opinion that Senator Owen will never become afflicted with homesickness until public sentiment here abouts changes considerably.—Shawnee Herald.

The truth of the business is that Owen is not in touch with Oklahoma. The people of this state demand of their representatives that they stay at home, mix with them and learn their wants and wishes. Owen is too aristocratic to do this. He is not the most popular man in Oklahoma by a whole lot, at least by a slight.—Enid Wave-Democrat.

ARDMORE POLITICAL.

Ardmore seems to be on the political map this year in black letters. In the first campaign the town had its lone candidate, Lee Cruce, who tried for the governorship. This year Cruce can not claim the favorite son distinction alone, for there will be several aspirants from the same post-office.

Superintendent Evans of the Ardmore schools is a candidate for state superintendent. Van Mullen, of land fame, is to try for clerk of the supreme court; W. F. Gilmer is in the race for auditor, and has already made his announcement. Others are said to be itching to run for various offices, but fear the candidacy of Cruce will divert attention to the fact that Ardmore is becoming too strenuous in its party demands.—Shawnee Herald.

COL. McALESTER HAS MADE GOOD

The itch for public office is a terrible thing. There is nothing else that would cause Colonel J. J. McAlester to chase around for re-election to the dinky office that he holds when he could stay in 'McAlester' and help to make it one of the biggest places in the state.—McAlester News-Capital. The McAlester paper is mistaken. Col. McAlester has done wonders for his town, and the fact that he holds office and wants another term is that he believes he can serve his state well and be of some use to its people. Col. McAlester is one of the cleanest men in public life, and he hews to the line every time. There is no danger of the people being "gold bricked" as long as McAlester is in power.

OWEN THE ARISTOCRAT.

Senator Owen, the gilded aristocrat is in Washington prosecuting his private claim for a $7,500 fee against his fellow Cherokees, the same representing one half of the value of the allotments of those kindred who are the more financially incompetent.

Senator Gore, the great commoner, the converse of his colleague, is in Massachusetts contesting for the rights of the consuming masses as against the money kings.

Judge Henry M. Furman, presiding judge of the criminal court of appeals, has been cordially invited by numerous friends to make the race for governor next year. Judge Furman states, however, that he does not want the nomination and has no desire to be governor. He says he will again seek a place on the bench. Incidentally, Judge Furman is one of the state's leading Baptists, being chairman of the Baptist state convention, and a zealous worker in the Orphans' home movement.—Oklahoman.

The north pole will cease to be the point in the Dr. Cook controversy until his mountain climbing record is found at the top of Mount McKinley.

PITTSBURG PIRATES CLEAN DETROIT

MANAGER FRED CLARKE HAS ACHIEVED LIFE'S AMBITION TO LAND WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP.
ALL PITTSBURG IS REJOICING.

Entire Populace of Smoky City Take Holiday on News of Pirates' Victory—Monster Celebration Planned for Monday—$500 Purse for Adams.

Detroit, Oct. 16.—Before the greatest crowd ever seen in Bennett's park the National league again demonstrated its superiority over the American organization. Manager Clarke and his Pirate band chased "Wild Bill" Donovan from the box, and swatted Mullin at pleasure.

Winning by score of 8 to 0. Thousands were turned away from the gates and every available inch of standing room was taken.

Pittsburg Goes Wild.

Pittsburg, Oct. 16.—The world's championship business is a new wrinkle in Pittsburg. The streets were jammed with people, watching every score board during the playing of the game between the Pirates and Tigers at Detroit this afternoon and there was all kinds of enthusiasm turned loose when it seemed certain the home boys would win but it took about two hours for the Pirate fans to come to the realization that after years of struggle their team was really the world's champions.

After the last two hours had elapsed to activity of rejoicing went "the limit." The fans paraded, headed by a band, sang songs, did war dances and dragged out all the noise-making machines that could be found. The police managed to keep some kind of order but in the main the town was turned over to the raging fans.

The names of "Babe" Adams, "Honus" Wagner and Fred Clarke are on every tongue. Nothing in town is too good for any member of the team. At the Duquesne club some mentioned making up a purse for Adams and $500 was raised in five minutes.

Mayor Magee called the city council in session and plans were made for an official celebration Monday. A vote of thanks and congratulations drawn to President Dreyfus, manager Clarke and the members of the team, and the town will be their own, wide open to the victorious crew Monday.

Lead and Zinc Mines.

Sulphur, Ok., Oct. 17.—There is great excitement here over recent discoveries and developments in the new lead and zinc mines in the Arbuckle Mountains. In the western part of the county. Many miners and capitalists are in the mountains prospecting. The ores are paying from $30 to $50 per ton.

If True, Represents 12th Candidate.

Among the new lights on the horizon of state politics is Carleton Weaver, of Ada, member of the constitutional convention and one of the State's prominent young lawyers. According to a well founded rumor. Mr. Weaver will seek the democratic nomination for state auditor.—From Oklahoman.

TAFT'S SNEER PUT TO SCORN BY THINKERS

PRESIDENT'S ARRAIGNMENT OF OKLAHOMA CONSTITUTION AT-TACKED BY LEADERS.

CHAMP CLARK, TART

Declares Document the Best Devised by Any State in the Whole Union.

(Oklahoman)

Undignified, unnecessary. These two words express simply the rebuttal that statesmen of America have compassionately given Oklahoma in commiseration of the words of President Taft, "the utterance of which sought figuratively to place the baby state in sack cloth and ashes for the allegedly unpardonable error of making a constitution in harmony with the simple ideas of liberty and justice a million and a half folk of two territories inherited from principles promulgated before Mr. Taft was yet even a little child."

The president of the United States who is temporarily the great white father of the white man and the Indian squatted together in a garden of Eden selected and platted between the southern chalk line of Kansas and the northern red line of Texas, with hatred aforethought and monumental avoidpools to produce a thundering reverberation, declared to the accumulated population of Prescott, Arizona, and vicinity, that Oklahoma was a zoological garden of cranks, and cited the Oklahoma constitution to prove what he said.

So, it was fitting that men like Champ Clark, Thomas P. Gore, Norman D. Mack, John W. Kern and Samuel Gompers should commiserate greatly with the child its foster father had so ingloriously slandered. Of course, their testimony is not satisfying to so great an advisor as the president, but it rings the bell to a million and a half Oklahomans. It's the sort that William J. Bryan gave, the sort that many another American statesman would delight to speak.

Talk-Back of Statesmen.

Are Oklahomans vegetable productions in a garden of cranks? The testimony of eye-witnesses to the operation of constitution-making is to the contrary. William J. Bryan spoke up early when the instrument was complete and said it was the best ever written. Yesterday Champ Clark of Missouri wired the Oklahoman in the same language. Samuel Gompers wired that "it is a monument to the intelligence and progress to the people of Oklahoma." John W. Kern says that it protects the people "against dishonest servants and greedy corporations and insures honest government." Norman E. Mack says that since it has been ratified by the voters it "represents the will of the people, and that is sufficient and conclusive." Senator Gore says "it is favored by the lovers of liberty, equal laws and just government everywhere."

Here are some of the expressions by some of the nation's thinkers and leaders as to Oklahoma's constitution, wired in reply to telegrams sent by the Oklahoman:

By Champ Clark.

"In my judgment the Oklahoma constitution is the best in the union."—Champ Clark.

By Samuel Gompers.

"The Oklahoma constitution contains better guarantees and has more real regard for human liberty and the rights of the man making for the protection and progress of your state than has thus far been manifested by any other country. The constitution of Oklahoma is a monument to the intelligence and progress of the people of Oklahoma and, despite occasional adverse criticism now, future generations will gladly pay them their due meed of praise and honor of leadership in the march of human freedom."—Samuel Gompers.

By John W. Kern.

"The Oklahoma constitution in its essential features is an admirable document because it secures to the people control of their own affairs, protects them against dishonest servants and greedy corporations and insures honest government. It is based on the Jeffersonian maxim: 'Equal and exact justice to all, special privileges to none.' Since Mr. Taft's recent surrender to the stand pats and subsidy grabbers and his warm endorsement of Aldrich and his crowd, no one expected that he would approve the Oklahoma constitution or any other instrument intended for the safeguarding of the interests of the people."—John W. Kern.

By Norman E. Mack.

"Without discussing the details of the Oklahoma constitution pro and con, it has been ratified by the voters and represents the will of the people of Oklahoma; that is sufficient and conclusive for the purposes of this inquiry. I am more than surprised; I am amazed that the president of the United States, who is president of the state of Oklahoma, as well as of all the rest, should assail the constitution of that great commonwealth, thereby also attacking its people, for they have certainly just as good right to their own form of government as the state of Pennsylvania or any other state in the union."—Norman E. Mack.

GORE DISGUSTED.

Doesn't Like Taft's Criticism of the Oklahoma Constitution.

Lawton, Okla., Oct. 16.—Senator T. P. Gore is not at all pleased with President Taft's statement that the Oklahoma constitution is a "zoological garden of cranks."

Just before leaving here today for Massachusetts, where he is to speak in several congressional campaigns, the senator said:

"It would be improper to say that if Oklahoma desires to add to her zoological garden a specimen that has the ability to put all four feet in its mouth at one time, she would not have far to seek."

"The present tour and entourage of the president has been a comedy of errors, a tragedy of blunders ever since the curtain went up and probably will be until the curtain comes down."

Mr. Braley Recovered.

The News rejoices to see Will Braley around again attending to business and his usual good citizenship administrations. Mr. Braley is still a little feeble after such a severe illness.

GRAND SEC'Y. CHAUNCEY TAKES IN SAPULPA

GOES UP TO SEE HIS SON JOHN WHO WAS EMPLOYED WITH THE WELLS-FARGO.

Special to the News.

Sapulpa, Okla., Oct. 17.—Captain C. M. Chauncey of Ada, Grand Secretary of the I. O. O. F. lodge, was a visitor to Sapulpa during the early part of the week. Captain Chauncey came up to see his son, John, who is with the Wells-Fargo people here, and incidentally to look the city over.

The Grand Secretary was taken in charge by Grand Treasurer Bates Burnett and a few strenuous hours were passed in Burnett's Winton Six. And nearly everything else was passed, also. Mr. Burnett has one of the finest cars in the southwest, and he is not afraid to make it go. While rolling over the finely asphalted streets the car went so fast that Captain Chauncey couldn't see the town, and they had to go 'round and 'round hundreds of times, in order that the Grand Secretary could see; in fact it required a complete swing around the circle to properly see one object of interest; therefore there was a revolution for every look. Down Lee avenue the car made something like 50 miles an hour, and the captain asked his friend if he were in a hurry. As soon as the Grand Secretary learned that there was no speed limit on cars or anything else in Sapulpa, he became reconciled to his fate.

There was no accident, however, and that evening found the genial Secretary on a front seat at the theater hearing Tim Murphy in "Old Innocence."

Captain Chauncey was surprised at the rapid growth of Sapulpa since his last visit about one year ago.

TO THE GALLOWS WITH ALF HUNTER

JURY RETURNS DEATH VERDICT AFTER BEING OUT ONLY THIRTY MINUTES.

The Murderer of Sheriff Garrison, Sits Unmoved Throughout Trial. Appeals Case to Supreme Court.

Watonga, Okla., Oct. 16.—Alf Hunter killed Sheriff George W. Garrison of Oklahoma county near Hitchcock, June 5, 1908, and must pay the penalty for the crime with his life on the gallows. The jury was out 40 minutes today and returned a verdict of guilty. An hour later Judge Brown sentenced the prisoner to be hanged Friday, December 3. This was followed by a motion for a new trial, which was overruled this afternoon at 4 o'clock. After the sentence had been imposed counsel for Hunter gave notice of appeal to the state criminal court of appeals.

This in brief is a history of the important events in the closing day of the trial. Benjamin Smith made the closing argument for the defendant this morning and County Attorney Boardman closed for the state in one of the strongest and most dramatic appeals ev heard in a court room in Blaine county. He concluded at 10:30 and at 11:20 the jury's verdict was in. Judge Brown delivered a lecture of an hour in sentencing the prisoner. Hunter sat through it without emotion and at the conclusion said that there was testimony to his advantage that had not been introduced because he could not get his witnesses here.

Hunter killed Sheriff Garrison in a pitched fight in a field near Hitchcock after the sheriff, armed with a warrant charging Hunter with the murder of a woman in Oklahoma City, had followed the negro into Blaine county and had located him in the country. Hunter fired seventeen shots in the battle, killing Garrison and wounding Fate Sanders, a deputy sheriff, himself receiving a wound chairman of the Baptist state convention escaped and was hunted by posses for several days. Three weeks ago he was captured in Arkansas.

OKLAHOMA'S GOVERNORS.

Who They Are and What They Are Doing.

A crowd of federal court attaches were sitting in the lobby of the Whittington hotel last night and the talk turned to the governors of Oklahoma and but one or two could remember how many there had been or who they were, says the Ardmoreite.

One person was able to name them and also give an account of them. Three lawyers have occupied the executive chair of Oklahoma: G. W. Steele, A. J. Seay and C. M. Barnes; one banker, C. W. Renfrow; one farmer, Wm. Jenkins; one Rough Rider, Frank Frantz; two newspaper men, Tom Ferguson and the present incumbent, C. N. Haskell; all still alive and in the flush of vigor. Steele returned to Indiana, went to congress and was appointed governor of the soldiers' home at Marion; Renfrow is in the mining business in Missouri; Seay has retired to an easy chair at Kingfisher; Jenkins is promoting land deals in Eastern Oklahoma; Ferguson, like Kaleeta, went back to stone (the printer's stone) at Watonga; Barnes became mayor of Guthrie; Frantz is in the real estate business at Oklahoma City; Haskell is in double harness—editor of the New State Tribune of Oklahoma City and chief executive of the state.

Prof. Butts Dead.

The people of Ada will be grieved to learn of the sad death of Prof. Leo Butts which occurred at 2 o'clock this morning at Mill Creek where he was teaching in the public schools. It will be remembered that Prof. Butts was a member of the city High school faculty last year and served in the capacity of principal of the South school during the latter part of the school term. During his residence in the city he proved himself to be a high-toned christian gentleman, and made many close friends while in Ada. He was a devout member of the Baptist church and was very active in church work. It is sad always, to chronicle the death of a man like this one, for he was noble and possessed one aim only, and that was, to make this big world a better place to live. The source of the untimely end was typhoid fever.

The deceased was reared in Grayson county, Texas.

Astonished Many.

Prof. Thomason the palmist at the Chapman hotel during his short stay here has read the hands of many of our citizens and all are astonished at his remarkable insight into their lives, in telling past, present and future. So don't fail to see this gifted man, as he advises on all affairs.

HEALTH HINTS.

By G. T. Howerton,
East Central Normal School.

"Am I my brother's keeper?" An old question, truly, but one with a greatly new answer—an answer that spreads in application as our community interests and relations become more complex and inter-dependent. Once upon a time it was not regarded as my duty to keep my brother in health. But a few years ago Dr. Parker of England said, "When a patient dies of typhoid fever some one should be hanged." Many other teachers have taught the same doctrine, tho not in such heroic doses. As our knowledge of the origin and communication of diseases has improved our responsibility for our own health, the health of the family and the health of the community in which we live have become more and more a moral factor in our daily life. To illustrate: A has a case of typhoid fever in his family. It is his duty, as head of the family to see that the case is so conducted that (a) the patient will have the best chance for quick recovery, (b) that no other member of the family will have a chance to "catch" the malady, and (c) that no neighbor will be able to pick up the disease from that case. But if A has not the knowledge to do this, or does not feel the moral obligation to do it, even if he knows how, then the community as a whole, the municipality, the state, the nation, should come to the relief of A's family and his neighbors, and see with its overseeing eye that the possibility of spread of disease from that case is reduced to a minimum.

L. J. Crowder Wins.

The folks of the city generally are delighted to see Alderman L. J. Crowder on the streets again. It was a heroic contest for life and the News extends congratulations all round.

Mr. B. H. Mason, now traveling representative for a leading wholesale drug concern, visited his family yesterday.

GUEST BROS.

Honor Appreciated.

"We fully appreciate the honor of your visit and we realize the magnitude of the noble purpose that inspired you. In behalf of the president and of the people of the United States, I give assurance of their cordial esteem for the republic of Mexico and its wise and beneficent president, and welcome you to their country and its hospitality."

Those present at the interview between President Taft and President Diaz in the chamber of commerce building at El Paso were Secretary Dickinson, Frank H. Hitchcock, postmaster-general, Governor Campbell and other state officials of Texas and members of President Taft's entourage.

The president of Mexico was accompanied by General Manuel Gonzalez Coggio, minister of war; Olgario Molina, minister of commerce, industry, colonization, mines and agriculture; Governor Creel and members of the presidential staff.

Less than an hour after President Diaz had withdrawn, President Taft was on his way to Juarez to repay the call.

He was received at the Mexican end of the bridge by all of the troops gathered there as an escort to President Diaz and was received with the same honors and distinction as had marked the visit of the Mexican executive to this country.

Mr. Taft found the little Mexican frontier city a veritable cauldron of wave colors. The streets over which Mr. Taft journeyed from the bridge end to the customs house had been converted into a continuous court of honor.

President Diaz tonight was received on this side of the Rio Grande with an acclaim that almost equalled that of President Taft in the city of Juarez.

Sit Side by Side.

President Taft and President Diaz sat side by side at the banquet.

The conversation was carried on partly in Spanish and partly through the interpreter who stood just in the rear of the presidential chairs.

The speeches of Presidents Taft and Diaz at the Juarez dinner were given as toasts from one to the other. President Diaz was first to rise.

In Spanish, the soldier and president expressed a cheerfully worded message of good will to the visiting president. When the president of Mexico had concluded, his words were interpreted into English and repeated to the Americans present.

When the interpreter had concluded, President Taft arose.

Wildly Cheered.

It was a minute or more, however before he could proceed. Cheers rang through the flowered dining hall which had been concluded in the picturesque patio of Mexico and the president stood smiling appreciation as he was permitted to proceed. He said:

"Responding as befits the most auspicious occasion, I arise to express in the name and on behalf of the people of the United States, the admiration and high esteem they hold for the great, illustrious and patriotic president of the republic of Mexico. I also take this occasion to pronounce the hearty sentiments of friendship and accord with which my countrymen regard the Mexican people."

"Your excellency, I have left the United States and set my foot in your great and prosperous country to emphasize the high sentiment and confidence, the brotherly neighborliness which exists between our two great nations. The people of the United States respect and honor the Mexicans for their patriotic devotion, their will, energy and steady advance in industrial department, and moral happiness."

Taft's Toast to Diaz.

"The aims and ideals of our two nations are identical, their sympathy mutual and lasting, and the world can be assured of a vast neutral zone of peace."

"I drink to my friends, president of this great republic, to his continued long life and happiness, and to the never-ending bond of mutual sympathy between Mexico and the United States."

As President Diaz's words were interpreted into English, so Mr. Taft's remarks were repeated in Spanish. President Taft made his way back to American soil in a perfect blaze of artificial light and with an escort which changed at the international bridge from Mexican to American.

In token of remembrance of their historic meeting both presidents were presented at the dinner tonight with goblets of gold, the gift of the city of El Paso.

Britain's Gift of Peace.

The indispensable foundation for the working out of any principles of government is internal peace, and peace is the greatest of the blessings that British rule has bestowed upon India. The ravages of invaders, the horrors of civil war between state and state, race and race, creed and creed, have utterly ceased. An occasional clash between Mohammedans and Hindus, easily and promptly quelled, is nowadays all that disturbs the tranquillity of a continent once the unceasing prey of strife and disorder. But beneath the truce imposed by British power the old hatreds and passions are still straining, and it is a curious example of human inconsequence that the Bengalis, who have done most to impair the strength of the British Raj, and who have ever agitated for its abolition, would be the first to suffer were it to be overthrown.—From Sydney Brooke's "British Rule in India" in the Century.

No Danger.

Much sobered by the importance of the news he had to communicate, youthful Thomas strode into the house and said, breathlessly:

"Mother, they have a new baby next door, and the lady there is awful sick. Mother, you ought to go right in and see her."

"Yes, dear," said his mother. "I will go over in a day or two just as soon as she gets better."

"But, mother," persisted Thomas, "I think you ought to go in right away; she is real sick, and maybe you can do something to help."

"Yes, dear," said the mother, patiently, "but wait a day or so until she is just a little better."

Thomas seemed much dissatisfied at his mother's apparent lack of neighborly interest, and then something seemed to dawn upon him, for he blurted out:

"Mother, you needn't be afraid—it ain't catching."—Cosmopolitan.

Good at Addition.

Sammy's mother talked to him long and earnestly about the poor marks he had been getting in his work at school. She painted in alluring colors the career of the little boy who studies his lessons and gains the love and respect of his teachers. She went even further; she promised him a whole dime, all for his own. Sammy seemed impressed.

That afternoon he returned from school fairly dancing with joy.

"Oh, mother," he shouted, "I got a hundred!"

"Sammy!" cried his delighted mother. She hugged him and kissed him and petted him and—gave him a dime.

"And what did you get a hundred in?" she finally asked.

"In two things," replied Sammy, without hesitation, "I got 40 in reading and 60 in spelling!"—Everybody's.

The Same Dimensions.

The bride-to-be had the air of one who is unreconciled to the existing state of affairs. "Can't we take a wedding trip, as we'd planned?" she asked, plaintively.

"Not just now," said the young man, "on account of my partner's illness."

"I thought it would be such fun taking that six days' journey in the cars!" she sighed.

"Well, now, see here," said the young man. "If you take the flat I looked at yesterday, it'll be just the same as living in the parlor car stateroom, except that the scenery won't change."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

The Drama Taught by Mail

Mr. Wood B. Booth, Mulligrub, Missouri.

Dear Sir: Your application for instruction by mail calculated to fit you for the ordinary villainous part in a melodrama received and filed. Your remittance of $10 is hereby acknowledged.

We have turned out of our correspondence school some of the most villainous actors now on the stage, and each succeeding season we are making them more so. One of our pupils was set upon by an angry audience in Texas a few weeks ago and beaten within an inch of his life, so naturally and villainously did he carry out his part in "The Unwound Mainspring; or, The Watch That Failed." He has sent us a splendid testimonial, with his photograph after the attack, a copy of which we enclose as an additional assurance of our skill at making villains by mail.

For your first lesson we append a few suggestions as the basis for your future work. Follow directions carefully and advise us when you have mastered these elementary principles. First, the teeth: You must learn to grind them readily, with a grating sound that can be heard as far as the gallery.

Some villains carry along a property dentist to grind their teeth for them, or employ a local dentist as a "supe." This will not do. Every really successful villain should learn to grind his own teeth. We have a small emery toothgrinder that we sell at 75 cents that has proved very satisfactory. In case the necessities of the drama requires the teeth to be ground several times in the course of one performance you should have a supply of our emery grinders in your vest pocket. We make special rates on them by the dozen, and they will be of great service to you.

Second, the hair: It must be jet black and curly. If you have naturally black and curly hair so much the better. It will not take so much of your attention. Otherwise remit $2.50 for a quart of our jet dye, guaranteed not to turn green, spot, freckle or scale. We have also a pocket curler, inexpensive and efficient, and we prepare a rhinoceros grease hair wax which lasts indefinitely and keeps the ringlets always in condition. Especial attention must be paid to these details of the hair. The villain whose hair comes out of curl at a critical point in the play is lost.

Third, the walk: The villain's walk is essential to success. You should stand before the pier glass at least four hours a day and practice the strut, the glide and the swagger. Strut until you are in a light perspiration; then glide until you cool off, and finally swagger until you are steaming hot. Remember, you must never appear on the stage with an ordinary carriage. When you threaten the heroine, strut; when you steal the child, glide; when you wave the mortgage that is to rob her of the old farm, swagger. For practice you may wave part of an old newspaper and swagger before the glass; until you are thoroughly aroused and feel villainous. Then write us for further instructions.

Fourth, setting the teeth: Certain of your lines must be hissed through your set teeth. The success of these lines depends upon getting the teeth properly set. Setting the teeth is acquired only by long practice.

Fifth, the speech: When you have learned to hiss through your set teeth a little alcohol or gasoline will dissolve the tooth setting and you are free again to resume your villainy.

The speech now becomes of prime importance. A good many of your best lines depend upon it. For your first lessons take these words, which you will have frequent need of:

"Tush!" Very expressive and necessary. Tush before the glass about 50 times, putting words of scorn into each tush.

"Bah!" This is one of the most important words in your vocabulary. A good bah will always bring down the house. The bah must come from the very lower lobes of the lungs; or, better still, the abdomen. A little bah that comes from only the back teeth will not do. You will need to bah at the heroine, the hero, the honest but simple-minded farm hand, and possibly at the police. With the right kind of a bah, you will be able to get through four or five acts before you are caught. A poor bah may land you in the toils in the second act.

"Pish! Hah! Fudge!" These and other exclamations should be carefully rehearsed. After you have fudged until you feel proficient, hah liberally. Do not neglect these.

Sixth, the "Kuh-hurses!" These are highly important. It may be necessary for you at any moment to heap kuh-hurses on some one. For this purpose we supply a small package of assorted Kuh-hurses, guaranteed to keep in any climate, always fresh and vigorous, good, hardy stock. Thus supplied, when you say "Kuh-hurses on you!" you may shower a few of our specially prepared ones about. They are evaporated kuh-hurses, but freshen readily in a little water.

A small box of them will last you indefinitely.

This will constitute your first lesson. Please report progress, and remit promptly for your second lesson, which will deal with secondary elements of villainy.

Faithfully yours, R. E. ALTO.
